Student Speakers To Compete

14th District Legion
Oratorical Contest at High School March 6

Twenty-six years ago March 1 the present publisher took charge of The Standard for better or for worse, that is for the readers to decide. For us it was for better as we have been able to provide for our family and turned out eight of the finest children to be found in seven states. We have tried to be a good citizen, to advocate the things best for the community, have stepped on a lot of sore toes but hold malice toward none and we hope those who think they have been unnecessarily held up before the public will forgive us before death. We have our own ideas about what is right and what is wrong and when we have made up our mind we usually stay put. However, what little time we may be permitted to live, we suppose we shall carry on as we have in the past with malice toward none and charity toward all.

Those wishing paved streets should get busy and present their claims to the City Council at once in order to have them approved, then place on the barrelhead two-thirds of the cash before the work begins. One of the streets in the main section of the city has been partly paved with several blocks yet to go, that should be finished to the Keith Addition. This is Park Avenue with many fine homes that are filled with dust in the summer season and the street full of mudholes during the winter. We are told two or three property owners are holding up the continuation of this paving, for why we are not informed, but if it is for lack of funds a loan can be easily negotiated, and never again will the opportunity be presented to get them paved at the price.

The United States Supreme Court has rendered a decision that sets down on the sit-down strikers and says the employer has the right to cut them from the payroll. Likewise hits the Labor Board a crack between the eyes. The decisions just rendered will do much toward opening plants and putting men to work who want to work. Now if they would render some sort of a decision that would crisp Old C. I. O. Lewis they would do another good deed.

Thanks to M. J. Wragg for an invitation to get-together with a bunch of good fellows at a "big feed," whatever that means, Thursday evening, March 2 at 6:00 o'clock at the Midway Tavern 10 miles east of Farmington. We will be there in spirit but not in eating etc., etc.

The revoking of the Kattelman parole is another feather in the cap of United States District Attorney Harry C. Blanton, who prosecuted Kattelman whose firm failed with losses estimated approximately $500,000. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of five years, but some way or other the Federal Patrols Board had granted a parole after serving a few months over one year.

The editor of the Garden City Views used the term, "as poor as Job's turkey." Then he admitted he knew very little, if anything about Job, or how poor his turkey was, and said that information on that score would be gladly received. Well, here it is. Mrs. H. E. Deshazer, Pleasant Hill, says Job's turkey was so poor it had to lean against a fence to gobble. This information, Mrs. Deshazer admits, she gained in Sunday school (although not a part of the lesson), 50 years ago.—Pleasant Hill Review.

Mrs. Vernon L. Pryor, the former Miss La Verne Canoy, now living in Los Angeles, Calif., is in Sikeston visiting her mother and other relatives and friends. She honored The Standard office with a call Tuesday afternoon.

Cohn, Department Americanism chairman, 2116 East 38th Street, Kansas City.

To Consider Hospital Application in 1940

Sikeston's application for the 1939 hospital award of The Commonwealth Fund of New York will be considered when the 1940 selection of a city is being made. Henry J. Southmayd, director of the division of rural hospitals, notified J. S. Kevil, secretary of the local committee.

Following the announcement two weeks ago that the annual grant of $250,000 for a rural-area hospital had been awarded Pittsfield, Ill., the Sikeston committee, through Mr. Kevil, in a letter to Robert Jordan, associate of the hospital division, inquired if the application which was compiled after diligent work by the local people, would be given consideration when next year's choice is made.

Mr. Southmayd replied: "In answer to your letter of the 18th to Mr. Jordan, I may say that it is our policy to consider all communities which have made appeals for participation in our rural hospital program as candidates for awards in future years. You may rest assured, therefore, that the Sikeston area will be considered in 1940. This, however, is not to be understood as any commitment on our part.

"May I say again that we appreciate the co-operation you have given us in making our selection this year possible?"

Mr. Jordan visited Sikeston as the foundation representative last fall and was taken about the entire district to show the need for a hospital here. The economics of the country surrounding an applying city have considerable bearing on the application, because a certain portion of the cases must be charity clients.

Pittsfield, as winner, must raise $60,000 to match the grant.

Jaycee Play in Near Future

Possibility that the Junior Chamber of Commerce will put on its annual stage production within the next few weeks was expressed at the meeting Tuesday night at the Palace Cafe by Conly Purcell, director.

Mr. Purcell said the play would be on the order of the current Broadway hit, "Hellzapoppin," a series of hilarious gags and skits.

Possibility of boxing matches was also discussed. It was reported by Cletis Ferguson, recreation chairman, that Kennett has matches using prize fighters who contended in the district Golden Gloves matches. These fighters could be brought here, he said, for matches at intervals.

John Sikes, chairman of the committee on widening Front Street, reported the plans had been presented to the City Council and exhibited a blueprint of the proposed changes.

D. A. R. MEETING

King's Highway Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, celebrated George Washington's birthday, Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 22, with a business and social meeting at the Marshall Hotel with Mrs. G. P. Van Arsdale, Sr., and Mrs. C. A. Cook as hostesses.

After a short business session visitors and members were entertained. Beautiful and interesting heirlooms were on display and the history of each was told. Miss Viola Moore of Benton, who will represent Scott County in the American Legion district oratorical contest to be held in Sikeston March 6, gave a very interesting reading, "The Constitution on Trial" an original reading. Billy Van Arsdale played a very beautiful piano selection, "Valse Triste," by Jan Sibelius.

After the program the meeting adjourned for a social hour. The guests were Mrs. Eldon Phillips of Cape Girardeau, Mrs. E. C. Clove of Dexter, Miss Viola Moore of Benton, Mrs. Carl Setz of St. Louis, Mrs. W. W. Kingsbury and Miss Caroline Hess of Sikeston. Out-of-town members were Miss Pearl Phillips of Cape Girardeau, Mrs. E. P. Crowe of Dexter, Mrs. Garland Noland and Mrs. Miles T. Lee of Charleston.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

The regular meeting of the Woman's Club of Sikeston was held Tuesday afternoon in the Library Assembly room, with the President Mrs. Hollenbeck presiding. Reports from the treasurer and books committees were given by Mrs. Harry Dover and Mrs. H. A. Martin respectively. A committee to contact the members who have not paid their dues as the State Federation dues must be paid in March.

Sgt. Melvin Dace of the patrol Wednesday showed a picture of Spence at three Sikeston businesses houses where the negro had cashed the checks and all places identified him.

Using check forms obviously printed for his own use, he cashed the checks, each for $15.60, on the Missouri Construction Co. of Jefferson City, a fictitious concern.

Mrs. C. C. White, historian, read an interesting history of the Club activities from March, 1914, until 1920. The history will be continued up to the present time at future meetings.

Mrs. T. A. Henry read a most interesting paper on the life of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the mother of Woman's Clubs.

Mrs. Raymond sang the Battle Hymn of the Republic, with the members joining in the chorus, Mrs. Ralph Anderson at the piano.

A social hour was enjoyed, Mrs. G. W. Presnell, Mrs. Frank Dye and Mrs. J. N. Robinson were the hosts.

Weaving Room Rushing Exhibit For World's Fair

The WPA weaving room on the second floor of the City Hall is fulfilling a rush order of special handicraft which will go on display at one of the World's Fairs within the next few weeks.

Three types of coverlids, of the white cotton spun by the weaving room and woven with three different colors of warp, are being made on three looms. The operators circulating the shuttles back and forth dexterously so that the finished products may be into the hands of the district office at Farmington this Saturday.

The order was received the past

Thursday. It was not stipulated at which fair, at New York or San Francisco, the work will be exhibited, but it is likely the one at San Francisco, which has already opened.

They are expected to form part of a general WPA exhibit. Each WPA district is asked to contribute some of its products to the display.

Designs are a wreath rose in tan warp, white rose in a red wrap and a sun-moon-star pattern in blue warp. A four-yard strip of each will be made, according to Mrs. Willa Pierce, project supervisor. At the edge of each coverlid are the inwoven words: "Sikeston Mo. WPA '39."

New Photography Studio Opened

A new photography studio, with all new equipment, has been opened on Center Street in the Weller Bldg., across from the City Hall.

The proprietor, Charles W. Brundage, will make portraits both at the studio and at the home. He is also equipped to do Kodak finishing and enlarging. His studio has a well-furnished reception room. Appointments can be made at the studio or by phone 947.

Mr. Brundage is a graduate of the American School of Photography at Chicago. He came to Sikeston from Fayette, where he also had experience in photography.

MISSOURI WELFARE AGENCIES ORGANIZE

Jefferson City, March 1.—A new organization called the Missouri Council of Public Welfare Agencies and including executives of all State and Federal health, welfare and educational agencies operating in Missouri, was formed here this week. Dr. James W. Chapman, director of the Division of Child Hygiene of the State Health Department, was elected chairman; Arthur Nebel, director of Public Assistance of the Social Security Commission, vice-chairman, and Robert C. Edson, director of Probation and Parole, secretary.

With the increasing amount of public welfare activities through State and Federal resources and a resultant large numbers of workers in the field, such an organization appeared necessary to serve as a clearing house for problems affecting the different agencies, to reduce duplication of service and coordinate the work of the numerous services," stated Dr. James W. Chapman, chairman.

Previously, many field workers have gone about their own duties without sufficient knowledge of other agencies to call upon them for service. This council will furnish all member agencies with full knowledge of the programs of others and thereby clarify many problems."

McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Company, makers of automobile parts and accessories, report sales in January, this year, 13.56 percent above January, 1938, and 3.18 percent above the same month in 1937.

The going got rougher and tougher in the third round, Welch slapping Feroni, who went for the ropes repeatedly. Feroni used an eye-gouger to free himself from a hold. Finally, Feroni knocked Roy half out of the ring and held his foot on Welch's neck, whereby he was disqualified.

Matches will continue in the old armory site over the Sterling Store for the next two or three weeks, until a suitable location for a change can be found, it was announced.

In addition to the placing of white wavy lines at dangerous zones, three cross-state routes have been logged for the placing of suggested "miles per hour" speed plaques, principally on curves. New "MPH" markings will be placed this year on Routes 36, 50 and 66, in addition to Route 40, marked some time ago.

Safety and maintenance forces have made recent traffic counts and speed studies at a number of junctions with heavy accident records. This information will be used in locating warning signs and markings. Inventories of signs and markings are being made. To date some 400 junctions have been inventoried and indexed by types. From this information standardized markings will be worked out and should be helpful to motorists using highways.

TWO SKUNKS UNDER PORCH BUT WOMAN'S SOUS GOES UNHEEDED

Buffalo, N. Y., March 1.—Mrs. Irving Cook wants those two skunks out from under her front porch and she is pretty mad because she got these answers to her SOS:

City Health Department: "We remove only dead animals."

Conservation Department: "Our only interest in skunks is to protect them."

Humane Society: "We take care of animals that are being inhumanely treated or are in distress."

Mrs. Cook hadn't scented any distress signals so far.

New Madrid Extension Service Faces Crisis

There will be a county-wide meeting of all those interested in maintaining the New Madrid County Extension Office during 1939 at the Circuit Court Room on Tuesday, March 7, at 1:30 p. m., according to Charley Hawkins, secretary-treasurer of the extension board.

The purpose of this meeting will be to work out a plan for raising funds to pay the expenses of the office, since no court appropriation was made again this year. The previous appropriation is practically exhausted now, therefore, it is necessary that action be taken at once, Hawkins stated.

After the funds are raised there will be an election of officers of the sponsoring organization for the ensuing year. This organization will be composed of all those who make a contribution. Each member will be entitled to vote if present. No voting by proxy will be accepted it was decided by the board members at the last meeting.

The extension service was created as a cooperative service. The extension service, through the county and home demonstration agents, provides the latest information and advice on farm and home problems as obtained through the conducting of experiments and studies of this specific purpose. Four-H Clubs are organized and conducted for the purpose of helping boys and girls to get more out of life and to be better citizens of the future. The training of committees and providing of educational instructions relative to the Agricultural Adjustment Program. The federal and state governments pay the salaries of these agents.

Now the people themselves are asked to do something since this is a cooperative effort. They are to maintain a sponsoring organization, provide local leaders to help carry the work on in the various communities. These are urged plan a program for each year's work and activities and to provide an adequate office and finance the same.

Streets requested for paving are:

Park from Wallace to Grove.

Woodlawn from Kingshighway to Ranney.

Wallace from Kingshighway to Ranney.

Matthews from Prairie to Johnson.

Moore from Hunter to Wakefield.

Wakefield from Highway 61 to west line of East Acres Addition.

Grove from Highway 61 to Ranney.

Vernon from Grove to Highway 61.

WIDENING PLAN

John Sikes in behalf of the Junior Chamber of Commerce spoke on the proposed widening of Front Street downtown by the parkway adjoining the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks. The Council gave the Jaycees authority to contact railroad officials about securing the property needed to widen the street.

Dr. W. M. Sidwell of the Board of Aeronautics asked the city for $57.55 to pay for materials which will be used in airport improvement work, and the request was granted.

The Council also ratified Mayor Presnell's appointment of R. W. Schwieger and V. P. Boisaboin to the Board of Aeronautics.

NEW REVENUE BOND

An ordinance to issue a current revenue bond for 1939 was passed. It will be for $10,000, as compared to one for $25,000 issued last year to aid in payment of general expenses, indicating an upturn in the city's financial condition. The 1938 bond will be retired on March 15.

John Hudson asked that the city prevent the moving of the frame buildings of the Wagon Yard from the north end and Malone Avenue side to a point in the yard across from his home on South Ranney. That part of the structure across from his home is not being razed, but with the additional buildings behind it, he said, an additional fire hazard increasing his insurance rates will be created, he stated.

The matter was referred to the city attorney for an opinion.

Trees were reported dying in Malone Park and the park committee instructed to investigate about securing replacements.

The Council authorized the payment of $100 to City Attorney Dempster for work in connection with the issuance of park bonds.

Twenty-five dollars was donated to the Children's Home Society of Missouri.

Early Malcolm was allowed $22.50 for the use of a team for city work at the bone yard.

An ordinance calling for a general city election April 4, the first Tuesday of the month, was passed.

BIG CIGARS FOR BIG MONEY

(Joseph T. Mackey)

Perhaps the greatest mistake most of us make is in forming the habit of thinking small thoughts. We lack faith. We fail to remember that the supply of good is unlimited.

Those capable of making effective use of ideas or materials usually get them. One of the most successful manufacturers in the country got a job in an old fashioned plant shortly after he was graduated from Amherst. He was without experience in business, but he was open-minded and began looking about for new ideas. The Taylor efficiency system was just then attracting much attention. This young man began to persuade his superiors to try out some of the new ideas in their plant. Such success followed that the young man got an idea that has since made him rich.

"I don't need money," he said to himself. "All I need is the ability to manage properties so that they will make a profit. But I won't do the work as a mere hired man. I'll go to banks that have losing businesses on their hands and offer to take them over, paying for them out of profits. Eventually I'll pay off the banks, which will satisfy them, and the businesses will be mine."

He started with one small plant in a little country town. He made such a success of it that other plants were offered him. He took his time and built up a management organization of his own. Today he is a national advertiser, owns ten great manufacturing plants, and is recognized as a leader in his field. All he did was to make his form of management a magnet. With an idea he reached into the unlimited field of possibilities and dragged out millions of dollars.

Usually his associates are against him when he buys a new plant. They want to leave well enough alone. He chuckles at that. They are such each time that by taking on more work he will ruin everything. They simply lack vision and courage. He has both. He dares to think in terms that fill them with fear.

Our own Harry Porte, Pacific Coast Manager, tells about a cigar salesman who was taught to think in bigger terms by Billy Love, then manager of the Thornton Hotel at Butte, Montana. This salesman had been making many small sales, averaging no more than $75.

"Have you any cigars that retail for $1?" asked Billy Love.

"Yes," gulped the salesman. From the bottom of a sample case he dug out a long cigar, covered with gold foil with a multi-colored band. He had never expected to sell any of that brand.

"What's the price?" asked Love. The salesman thumbed the price list and replied, "Fifty cigars for $40."

"How much for 5,000?"

That stumped the salesman. He said he'd have to telegraph his house. The next morning he received a wire that ran something like this: "Price for 5,000 cigars to retail for $1 is $3,250. Who wants to know? Get all the money or half of it in advance if someone isn't kidding you. This company doesn't tolerate drinking. Explain by letter."

The salesman handed the wire to Mr. Love who made out a check for $2,500. After thanking him profusely, the salesman started to go.

"Wait a minute, youngster," commanded the customer. "I want to order some cigars to sell two-for-a-quarter, and some that sell for two bits." Mr. Love then bought an additional lot that amounted to something over $1,200.

The salesman also got a lecture in salesmanship from Mr. Love. He was told to show his high-priced lines first. "Expect your customers to want the best," he counselled. "Always assume the best is none too good for them. You'll be surprised to find that they'll do business with you on that basis. You can always drop down if you have to. But start at the top."

If more of our leaders would spend less of their time damning conditions they think wrong and more of their time in working expressive of a greater faith in the future of our country, both they and the country would be more prosperous. They go about with nickel cigar thoughts when they should be thinking in terms of dollar cigars. Thoughts are magnets. They attract the kind of people, ideas, orders, promotions, honors, rewards that belong to them. It is the thinker of big thoughts who creates big businesses. No other can accomplish that result.

Our own business is great na-

SYNOPSIS

When bank robbers threaten to kill her brother unless she gets a truck in which to carry off the proceeds, Jane Hartman, beautiful bank secretary, lures Tony Andrews, independent trucker, to the gang's hideaway. The truck is barbecued and Tony is forced to drive the gang's money line. When police get too close for comfort, Tony is ordered to swerve off the highway toward an abandoned barn where a plane is hidden. Gibbs, the gang's chief, has orders to kill Jane. Tony and her brother leave in the plane. Tony thinks fast and tells them of an ideal hideaway his room near the border. The leaders and they all pack into the plane as the police arrive on the scene.

CHAPTER IX

TONY had not lied to Mr. Gibbs; the abandoned farm to which he helped Randall pilot the plane was an ideal hide-out—isolated and far off the beaten track. Mr. Gibbs was delighted. Despite the strain of the situation, Jane and Tony found it pleasant. Only Randall fretted at the delay and drank as much whisky as Mr. Gibbs would bring him from the nearest store, using Tony's battered old car which he kept at the farm. Charlie, convalescing from his wound, was not happy with his thoughts either.

Lying by the window of the farmhouse one afternoon, Charlie overheard Tony enthusiastically planning the future of this farm. He would grow everything—cattle, grain, vegetables. And Tony's delight knew no bounds when he discovered that Jane was the daughter of an Ohio farmer; she, too, loved the soil.

"In all the planning I've done for this place I always thought of it for myself alone," Tony told Jane as Charlie listened. "Now I don't think it even would be worth doing, unless—" As Tony attempted to take her hand, Jane pulled away.

"It's no good, Tony," she said. "It's not fair to you. I have a little problem of my own named Charlie."

"You can't sacrifice your whole life for him," Tony protested.

As they talked, Charlie reached under his pillow and withdrew the pearl-handled gun which Jane had taken from the bank. Although Mr. Gibbs had extracted the clip, he had overlooked one cartridge in the firing chamber.

Mr. Gibbs and Randall strolled up. The former was completely at ease; Randall was nervous and irritated. "Sorry to interrupt this charming little tête-à-tête," Mr. Gibbs said, "but I want you to drive me into town for supplies, Tony. We'll fill up the gas tank of the car again, too, and then siphon it into the fuel tank of the plane. We don't buy too much gas at one time; might make those hill-billies suspicious."

Mr. Gibbs turned to Randall. "I'm going to get a couple of gallons of paint also," he explained. "Every cop in the country has a description of that plane as it is: you can work off your bad temper by giving it a complete new paint job."

As Mr. Gibbs and Randall walked toward the car, Tony whispered to Jane: "I'm going to try to get a message to the storekeeper while I'm in town today."

"Be careful," Jane whispered back. "Oh, here's something I found in the kitchen cupboard. Maybe they'll come in handy." She gave Tony a handful of shotgun shells. Tony eyed them dubiously. "They're not much use without a shotgun," he said ruefully as he dropped them in his pocket and followed Mr. Gibbs to the car.

Pausing only to lock his store door, he raced down the street to the Sheriff's office. As the storekeeper dashed in, Captain Gonzales and Sergeant Bosen were questioning the local representative of the law.

"Are you sure there have been no strangers around here?" Gonzales repeated for the third time.

"Nope—and I told you before I ain't seen any planes going over, either."

"Hey, Sheriff! I been robbed," the storekeeper broke in. "Some felers came in and stole six watches right off my counter. They were strangers I never saw them before."

Captain Gonzales interrupted. "Strangers? What did they look like?"

When the trail of the bank bandits ended with the takeoff of the plane into a black sky, Captain Gonzales and his men went back over the ground in town, searching with redoubled vigor for a clue to the plane's possible destination. It was the woman who ran the lunchroom where Jane had met Tony who eventually supplied them with a tip.

In reply to Captain Gonzales' questions she happened to mention that Tony had purchased an old car which he announced was going to convert into a tractor. A tractor meant a farm, obviously. Had Tony

THE BEACHCOMBER

A Story in Pictures of Charles Laughton's Great New Picture, "The Beachcomber" - Based on a Novel by W. Somerset Maugham

(CHAPTER FIVE: To Another Island) During the three days they spend together in the native settlement, Ginger and Miss Jones relax their former hostility to each other for the first time. In spite of herself, Miss Jones admires his calm in the face of the greatest danger, while Ginger admits, to himself, that Miss Jones has her good points.

A strange noise outside their hut brings Ginger out into the jungle to investigate. The natives are on the verge of violence! As he feared, Miss Jones' courageous act of taking the chief's sick baby under her care has brought the natives to the point of revolt. Gun in hand, Ginger searches the vicinity. The hut is surrounded by armed natives, watching, waiting! Their signals in the stillness; the tense atmosphere, tell him that there'll be trouble if the child dies.

All through a nightmarish vigil, Ginger and Miss Jones sit huddled together in the hut, waiting for the ailing child to take a turn for the better—or worse! Outside, the natives pace restlessly. Loneliness and fear make the two confide in each other. With death hanging over them, their friendship grows. They hold hands. They talk of their early lives in England. Then, with the dawn, comes a smile from the child! It—and they—will live!

Central College

Central College, located at Fayette, Missouri, is the product of a program of education which has been carried on for more than a century by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Missouri. The college, incorporated by the Missouri General Assembly on March 1, 1855, eighty-four years ago this week, had its origin in Howard High School. Founded at Fayette in 1844, the high school was for a number of years one of the leading educational institutions in central Missouri.

In 1853 the St. Louis and Missouri Annual conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, united upon a policy of building only one central college in the State, planning to concentrate "the whole energies of the denomination for its endowment and support." In a spirited contest, Fayette, which had been a close contender with Columbia for the location of the State University, was selected as the home of the new college.

On February 4, 1854, one week after the Howard High School building burned, the trustees transferred the site to the college board of curators. Work was started at once on a new building, estimated at costing $30,000 to $33,000. It was completed in 1857. Howard High School was reorganized and continued as an institution for the education of women. In 1859 it was incorporated as Howard Female College, later becoming Howard-Payne College, which in 1922 was absorbed by Central College.

Possibly there was not a single early college in Missouri that opened under more favorable circumstances than did Central. For the first term, beginning on September 21, 1857, the enrollment was 124. This was six more than were enrolled in the State University for the same year, counting irregular students and sub-freshmen. The Reverend Nathan Scarritt, the Reverend C. W. Pritchett and Eli Offutt were the only faculty members. In 1858 the board of curators ordered the publication of an annual catalogue and the following year the first baccalaureate degree issued by the college was conferred upon S. C. Majors, Jr.

With the exception of a short recession during the Civil War the story of the college is one of continuous advancement. Situated on a beautiful campus in Fayette is a plant of fifteen buildings valued at almost $2,000,000, with an endowment of practically a million and a half more to add to the financial security of the institution. Many friends have helped to build the endowment through gifts, large and small, life annuities and testamentary bequests. Among the latest donors are Paul Brown, J. T. Cross, G. A. Radford, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fristoe and Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Cresap. Through the building and support of Central College the Methodist church in Missouri has exemplified in a most concrete manner the spirit of the great Wesley, who was led to build a school before he built a chapel.

Fletcher McMurry and Eugene Russell Hendrix, two of three Missourians to hold the highest episcopal office in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, received a part of their education at Central College. For the year 1937-1938 the college had a faculty of forty-five persons and an enrollment including summer students, of 790. The alumni of this college have held positions as educators and teachers in the country's leading educational institutions. Others have served in positions of trust in the State and national governments, and as diplomats, scientists, educators, authors, and ministers, others have exerted a profound influence on national and international affairs. The idealism and wide influence of the group of Central College graduates once prompted the late Walter Williams of characterize the world as the parish of Central College.

The Yankee Cavalry is in full retreat today. North of Pontotoc, Miss., they seem to be checking their movement. But General Gholson's Confederate command is following close behind them. Gen. N. B. Forrest yesterday had two horses shot from under him and he killed two Yankee officers with his saber. General Sherman's Federals have advanced to Pearl River. Near Okolona, Miss., General Forrest charged the Federals with sabers, slashing the Yankees right and left, driving them from their chosen battle front like cattle. Many of their wounded men were left on the field—70 years ago in Memphis Commercial Appeal.

PHEASANTS FLOCK TO FARM OFFERING FEED AND COVER

The farm of Louis Spatz in Elsah Township, Jersey County, Illinois, provides one of the best examples of what game management will do, according to Thomas Cummings, game warden of Jersey County. Cummings estimates that Spatz has fully 300 pheasants on his farm. The birds find excellent winter covering in a 60-acre tract of sweet clover which grew to considerable height last season.

Spartz maintains a continuous soil-building program through the use of this legume, and permits it to continue for several years before ever plowing it under. Pheasants prefer the sweet clover cover to any other in the locality. Another factor as important as the cover is the corn that Spatz refuses to husk each winter. This season he has permitted a 15-acre tract in close proximity to the sweet clover to remain unhusked, and it is in this field that the birds find plenty of food.

It has recently been demonstrated that cock pheasants may become too numerous. They engage in fighting that sometimes lasts over long periods and ends in many instances in the death of one of the combatants. During wheat-sowing season last October, Spatz says, a pair of the cock pheasants started fighting just as Spatz started the afternoon work. The birds fought all afternoon, and when Spatz drove his drill to its parking place for the night, the two were still battling.

Cummings reports that many cock pheasants have been found dead in fields of the county. The dead birds have in each case showed the effects of fighting. Post-Dispatch.

If a candle had three ends...

Those who burn the candle at both ends are borrowing tomorrow's pleasures for today. If a candle had three ends they'd burn them all. Then, there's the fellow who never lights his candle at all. He's blinded by his fears of tomorrow.

The destiny of our America depends upon those who can see today's needs clearly... who can await tomorrow with confidence. Such was the spirit of our gallant forefathers. Had they burned the candle at both ends, or, had they failed to burn it at all... they would have accomplished nothing. Instead, they left us a priceless heritage... a land and opportunities that other nations envy.

Cook Italian Food in Own Home

"It's too bad that most Americans think that the only way to get good Italian cooking in this country is to go to the little Italian restaurant around the corner," says Agata Borzi, young Italian-American coloratura soprano who is making her debut this season. "As a matter of fact, there are all sorts of excellent and simple dishes which can be prepared at home and it's always fun to surprise your guests with a complete Italian meal."

"Here is a menu which would satisfy even those who insist on atmosphere with their meals, for it embodies the best features of

MACARONI MEAL-IN-ONE

When you get acquainted with a food as downright good and tasty and at the same time as quick and convenient as ready-to-serve macaroni and cheese—believe me, you'll think of a dozen ways to fit it into your menus. Specially if you want quick and easy meals. Why, you don't have to do a thing to it. It's seasoned to a "T". Just as luscious and rich and creamy as any good cook's macaroni ought to be. There's nothing to do but open the tin, spoon the contents into a buttered casserole, cap with a few bread crumbs and pop in the oven 'till the top is beautifully brown, and it's hot and bubbly all the way through. Makes mighty fine eating done that way, I can tell you. Or, if you'd like to trim it up a bit with a few frills of your own fixing, how about making Beefsteak Macaroni Pies? Makes a lusty main-course-in-one dish done this way:

BEEFSTEAK MACARONI PIES

Combine, mixing well—
2 lbs. round steak, ground
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Line 8 individual pie pans with the meat mixture, forming a meat crust. Fill centers with—
2 medium (17 oz.) cans cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese using about a fourth of a can for each pie.

Sprinkle with a combination of—
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter, melted.

Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. (Serves 8.)

GOOD MIXER

For a good all around mixer in any pantry party you can't beat spaghetti—those long tender strands made of top-grade Durum wheat masked in a nippy tomato and cheese sauce. The racy flavor makes it a sure-fire favorite with any crowd. And the ease of prep-

any restaurant bill of fare, and Serve minestrone, spaghetti with what's more, it's easy to prepare, a white sauce, a good green salad, zabaglione and a good cup of safe espresso, which is simply Italian coffee brewed very strong and served in demi-tasse."

DESIGN FOR MINESTRONE

The minestrone, which is almost a meal in itself, is made as follows:

Three pints of good stock, 1/4 pound of salt pork, 1/2 pound fresh kidney beans, 1/2 pound of peas, 1 or 2 sticks of celery, 1 small cabbage, 1/2 pound of spinach, 3 or 4 carrots, 1/2 pound of tomatoes, 1 small onion, a little sage, 1/2 cup of rice, parsley, 1 or 2 cloves of garlic, 3 or 4 tablespoons of Parmesan cheese, salt and pepper.

Put the stock in a large saucepan, bring to a boil and add the pork, cut in inch lengths, also the beans, peas, cabbage and spinach, finely chopped, as well as all the other vegetables. Stir well, season with salt and pepper and simmer until the vegetables are tender and have nearly absorbed the stock. Finally stir in the cheese. The soup should be very thick and may be served hot or cold.

The two main things to remember about cooking spaghetti are that it should never be broken into small pieces and that it should be boiled in plenty of salt water for not more than five minutes.

Drain it well, put in a frying pan with four or five tablespoons of oil in which three or four cloves of chopped garlic have been slightly browned and sprinkled with a little parsley. Season with salt and pepper, mix well and simmer turning frequently for 20 or 30 minutes, so that the spaghetti absorbs some of the oil.

A mixed green salad is delicious after these rather heavy dishes, and here is one of the nicest:

Sliced or quartered tomatoes, pimientos, salt olives, gherkins, chopped celery, chives or shallots, a sprig of chopped sweet basil, all mixed with a dressing composed of mullet roe (compressed and salted), marinated in oil, lemon juice and a little chopped parsley.

The crowning glory of an Italian meal is dessert of zabaglione, which is light and fluffy and easy to make if you follow directions carefully. Here they are:

Yolks of three large eggs, three tablespoons of sugar, just a little more than half cup of either Marsala wine or Madeira.

Put the yolks of eggs and sugar in a bowl and beat until the mixture is almost white and very light. Then add the wine and mix thoroughly. Pour into a saucepan and put on a quick fire, beating incessantly without allowing the mixture to boil or thicken. As soon as it begins to raise, remove from the fire, and pour into glasses. When served cold, keep in a cool place till required.

Crowds of interested persons attended the initial showing of the new 1939 Frigidaire electric refrigerators and ranges held in the display rooms of The Lair Co., local Frigidaire dealer. The new Cold Wall Frigidaire, containing the most important advance made in the process of food preservation since the first electric refrigerator was placed on the market years ago, was the center of attraction.

The bride was slightly nervous as she exchanged vows before Dr. Rollin H. Walker, professor emeritus of Ohio Wesleyan University, but she finished with a firm, "I do." BAILEY NEWS

The perfect spellers for the month of February is Miss Howard's room were: John Kendig, Shirley Reed, Lenora Brown, and Harold Duncan. The next best spellers that just missed one word were: Jimmy Mahew, Jack Bowman, Harold Portlock, Graham Sadler, Laurene Fowler, Forrest File, Elizabeth Price, Thelma Williams, and Freta Campbell.

The sixth grade pupils wrote short stories. They were given the introduction, and then they completed the story. Those judged best by the room were: "Helping the Police" by Jane Wilkerson; "Little Mischief" by Pat Ellise; "The Runaway" by Betty Hirschberg; and "The Mud Bath" by Martha Stevens.

The Book-Club leader elected for the month of March is Ann Warren of Miss Stubblefield's room.

Much interest is being shown in the book, "Pee-Gloo", P.-T. A. book prize for having the most mothers present at the meeting in December.

"Pee-Gloo" is a story of a penguin whose adventure began at the South Pole and ended, for the time being, in America. The story is beautifully illustrated with pictures.

HEALTH NOTES

Total number of children examined by School Nurse—397. Dental examinations are being made in the first, second and third grades by the local dentists who are co-operating in the general health program which the school is attempting to give to its patrons. These examinations are almost completed and results of the findings are being sent home to the parents. At present time 257 examinations have been made.

ATTENTION: 9-POINT PUPILS

A new ruling has been made by the State Board of Health beginning with this School year. All probable nine point pupils must have an examination made by the family doctor and a report from him given to the School Nurse. We suggest to all pupils who have had immunization for diphtheria, vaccination for small pox, and birth registration that you go to your family doctor for this examination as soon as possible to avoid a rush at the close of school and delay in receiving your nine-point award. We had only 81 nine-point awards last year and one five-year award. This 81 is less than 10 per cent of all children examined. We hope to increase the award this year to at least 10 per cent of examinations.

TELEVISION WILL BE DEMONSTRATED

Television will be demonstrated at an assembly program on Monday, March 6, at 2:30 p.m.

This modern world wonder will be previewed when both receiving and transmitting sets will be demonstrated. With the transmitting set on the side of the stage and the receiving set on the other, scenes of individuals in actions will be picked up by the receiving set, sent across the stage, and shown on a screen almost three feet square, a full television operation. This will be done with both the disc and cathode ray types of equipment.

The demonstration will be preceded by a simple, yet interesting explanation of the principles involved in television, all given in such simple language that even the youngest may readily understand.

The latest and most modern developments in the field of television will be displayed. In fact, a large part of this apparatus has been specially designed and constructed for this particular demonstration. It is not duplicated anywhere in the world. More than $12,000 was spent in the construction of the equipment, which

WPA Furnishes Kitchen Employees, Part of Food for School Lunches

The government through the WPA provides six employees in the kitchen and approximately one-third of the food that is issued to undernourished children each school day at noon on the lunch project sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, according to Pearl Finney of Chaffee, county kitchen supervisor.

Each day around 260 children sit at tables at the South Grade School, High School and colored school, eating a well-rounded menu designed to build up their bodies and make them more fit for school work and play.

The bill of fare for Thursday, for instance, was green beans, Irish potatoes, grapefruit and bread.

All the food is cooked in a kitchen at the South Grade School and portions taken to the High School, where Bailey School children also are served, and to the colored school.

Kitchen employees are Mrs. Campbell, timekeeper; Mrs. Marthas Crutchfield, Mrs. Pearl Shanks, Mrs. Inez Midget, Mrs. Emma Carroll and Mrs. Guy Browning. Two go to the High School eating room and one to the colored school.

By schools, children are served as follows: South Grade, 135; High School, 85; colored school, 40.

Government supplies come from the surplus commodity warehouse at Benton of the Social Security Commission. The kitchen has just received from the government 400 pounds of grapefruit and 85 pounds of butter.

The WPA also has supplied 18 uniforms and caps for the kitchen employees, and 30 aprons.

Reports from the school declare that children who otherwise would be dull and listless, incapacitated by lack of proper nourishment, have showed remarkable progress in their work since they have been eating at the lunch room.

The cost per pupil per meal runs well under 5 cents.

Suspected Of Burglary

Crippled Negro Taken By Police After Cane Prints Show at Scene

A broom-stick padded at one end and used as a cane is the clue which officers seek to connect Sylvester Lewis, middle-aged, crippled negro from Carutherville, with a burglary at 218 Daniel street Wednesday night and possibly more of the house raids that have taken place in Sikeston during the last year and a half.

When J. W. Jordan at the Daniel Street address reported to police that his home had been entered and 80 cents taken from his trousers, Assistant Chief Claude McManus and State Trooper V. P. Boisbien inspected around a living room window and found, besides footprints, the marks of a bedroom where Mr. Jordan was sleeping. His trousers were dropped in the dining room. Besides the pocket change, a set of keys and a round souvenir bearing his name, received from the Illinois Central railroad, was also taken.

Lewis was fingerprinted at the City Hall. Some scattered prints have been taken at various times during the burglary epidemic and police intend to make comparisons.

Eli Williams, who glimpsed a negro burglar last fall when he frightened him away from his home at 314 Ruth, failed to identify Lewis, saying there was a difference of face outlines. Cane prints were found around the Williams home, but the man who made them, along with footprints, was not crippled, he declared.

The Jordan home was entered by punching the screen to a living room window and loosening the hook. The burglar was compelled to go through the dining room, cross a hall and enter the

Don't Serve The Same Dishes Too Often During Observance of Lent, Famous Chef Advisers

(By Joseph Boggia)

To those who are observing Lent I may give one bit of advice which it will be well to follow. Do not fall into the habit of serving the same dishes too frequently during this period when you are eliminating a number of foods which seem important at other seasons.

Variety will help so much to make you forget that something is lacking in Lenten menus. It will make new food friends for you among those fruits, fish, vegetables and dairy products which you are inclined to slight somewhat when serving your favorite meats and pastries.

Particularly I wish to suggest that you learn new ways in which to cook fish; and that you make the acquaintance of new kinds of fish. Keep a card index or scrap book of the interesting recipes you find from day to day . . . and try them. Fish becomes very tiresome when served too often in the plainer ways. Try these few recipes I shall give today—and later more shall follow.

Shad will soon be in season, in the early Spring, and no fish is more delicate than boiled shad Hollandaise. Cook the fish in salted water to which you have added sufficient vinegar to make it mildly tart. Add also seasonings of pepper and parsley while the fish is cooking. Remove carefully to serviette, garnish with plain boiled potatoes and garnish with Hollandaise sauce.

Custon Hatching

Siester Hatchery

Fresh Haddock Fines Herbes you will find a very tasty dish. In a buttered gratin dish, sprinkle chopped mushrooms, onions and parsley. Season the haddock, lay it upon the bed of herbs and mushrooms, moisten with white cooking wine or stock, cover with buttered crumbs and cook in the oven until tender.

Curried scallops make a very dainty recipe for a supper dish with rice. Blanch the scallops, then drain and toss them in a stewpan with melted butter, chopped onions and tomato puree. Flavor with curry powder and finish cooking. Serve with plain boiled rice and chutney.

If fond of smelts, dip these tiny silver fish in egg and crumbs and fry them in deep hot fat. Serve with tomato sauce. A delicious dish made with fresh herrings I call Herrings Diable. Spread the fish with mustard, sprinkle with bread crumbs, dot with butter and grill until tender. Serve with a piquant sauce flavored with onion, chervil, chives and tarragon vinegar.

Oysters Anglaise you may make by putting the oysters on a skewer alternating with a piece of bacon. Season lightly with salt and cayenne.

Grilled Mackerel Francillon you make with fillets of the fish grilled and placed on fried croutons of bread coated with anchovy butter. Surround with straw potatoes and serve with tomato sauce.

Food For Children Easily Prepared

Cooking special meals for toddlers used to be a major chore. But now mothers can enjoy hours of extra time for supervising toddlers play hours and taking beauty treatments. The special menu needs of the young citizens between 1 and 4 can be prepared in less than five minutes kitchen duty per meal, because all of the special uniform chopped foods that toddlers require come in cans. The latest labor saver is complete Junior Dinner in one can—chopped beef or chopped lamb with chopped vegetables, rice and barley. This Junior Dinner may be served alone or with a portion of one of the canned chopped vegetables—chopped beets, spinach, greens or carrots. With chopped prunes or apple sauce and two kinds of soup—chopped liver or chopped vegetables—mothers can give their toddlers the complete range of variety pediatricians usually recommend, and best of all, mothers can produce these special meals for the toddler with less than five minutes kitchen duty per meal.

The canned chopped foods are designed for the child who has not yet ready for grownup foods. They guarantee the uniform even texture that doctors say is very important for children between 1 and 4.

6:30 p. m. Evangelistic services at 8:30 p. m. Sermon subject, "The Return of the Apostles."

The mid-week services Wednesday evening will be in charge of the elders of the church and the following Wednesday the deaconesses will provide the program. These services promise to be a great spiritual treat for the membership.—R. S. Rains, minister.

FATHER OF HOWARD TURNER SUCCUMBS

W. H. Turner, father of Howard Turner of Freeport, Ill., died at a hospital in Hillsboro, Ill., February 22 after an illness of two weeks duration. Funeral services were held near Butler, Ill., and interment was in the cemetery there. Mr. Turner was known in Sikeston, having visited his son Howard when he resided here.

Mother: Now, Susie, Johnnie says he's sorry he broke your doll, so I want you to forgive him.

Susie: I'd feel more like forgiving him, mother, if I could swat him one first.

A small boy called on the doctor one evening, "Say, Doc, I guess I've got the measles," he said, "but I can keep it quiet."

The doctor looked up puzzled, and finally asked the boy what he meant.

"Aw, get wise, Doc," suggested the small patient. "What'll you give me to go to school and scatter it among all the rest of the kids?"

WHAT SUPREME COURT DID

2 eggs
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
2/3 cup milk

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add flavoring and eggs. Beat until fluffy. Sift flour, measure and resift with the other dry ingredients. Add flour alternately with milk, mixing thoroughly after each addition. Bake in well greased muffin pans or in paper baking cups set in muffin pans in moderate oven (350°F.) 25—30 minutes. Yield: 15 cup cakes.

To decorate cut a cone shaped piece out of the top of each cup cake with a sharp knife. In this cavity place a spoonful of sweet canned pitted red cherries and cover with a large spoonful of whipped cream. Then replace the piece of cake which had been removed, pressing down very gently. This makes a nice party dessert.

NATIONAL CONTEST PRIZE WINNER TELLS WHY WOMEN WANT MODERN KITCHENS

Why women everywhere today want modern electric kitchens is no secret. Almost everyone knows of their efficiency and convenience. But Mrs. C. J. Sinnitt, of Spokane, Washington, one of the prize winners in a national kitchen planning contest conducted by The Modern Kitchen Bureau, believes several other reasons important.

"I am tired of 'horse and buggy' housekeeping," Mrs. Sinnitt says. "Tired of the eternal food struggle!

"I want the emancipation that a new, modern, electric kitchen affords!

"The beauty of streamlined equipment, with the thrill of color and contrast, the charm of gleaming cleanliness.

"The economy of time, work and money, with step-saving arrangement and modern methods; the effort-saving the ample storage capacity for quantity-bought foods, more appetizing thrift meals, proper refrigeration and perfect cooking at minimized cost. "The convenience of automatic control, faultless lighting, abundant hot water, good ventilation, electric-clock time, generous cabinet space, dish-washer sink, and the use of various 'mobile' electrical appliances.

"The efficiency of scientifically precisioned performance, promotion safety of operation and dependability of results.

"The durability which makes an electric kitchen a permanent investment, that staunch durability which makes the 'purchase by savings' plan a workable, profitable plan.

"Yes, I want the joy of a well-ordered, modernized, electric kitchen regime, which means a healthy family and a happy home."

Crocheted Evening Gown!

Why Mississippi

Since the days of the Roman Appian Way (which in its time cost much more per mile than the modern parkway) highways have been through the ages, have been changed to meet current needs. The enclosed automobile today comfortably carries a family anywhere, any time and at reasonable cost. The parkway provides a pleasant and recreational travel-way. It is a logical adjunct to the commercial routes for commercial vehicles between commercial centers.

PROMPT ACTION NECESSARY

The launching of this project at this time will permit the affected states to release their correlated developments and to arrange their programs of land acquisition while historic and suitable sites are yet available. The approval of the parkway plan by the federal government will greatly encourage the affected states to immediately enter upon an intelligent plan for the development of parks and recreational facilities and stimulate interest which will result in early construction.

It will take time to survey, obtain rights-of-way, construct the roadway and landscape the parkway areas. Therefore, the sooner the Congressional Act for this parkway can be enacted, the sooner public agencies can arrange their development programs to fit its ultimate plan and save duplication of effort and expenditures.

No estimate of cost has been made by anyone. No estimate of any kind can be prepared until field surveys are completed, a route finally selected by the National Park Service and plans approved. Therefore, it is hoped that Congress will speedily authorize the necessary surveys.

It is hoped as a result of the Federal surveys, that sections of the Mississippi River Parkway will be under development in 1941 as an appropriate permanent part of the Quadricentennial celebration of the discovery of the Mississippi River by Hernando De Soto.

POPULATION, TRAVEL AMPLY JUSTIFY PROJECT

One-fourth the population of the nation resides in the mid-continent 10 states bordering the Mississippi River.

There are approximately six million passenger automobiles registered in these 10 states, and over 10 million automobiles within one day's drive to the proposed parkway.

Hazards of mixed traffic and the continuing increase in the number of trucks demand the separation of passenger from commercial vehicles for tourists and "travel trade" as a matter of public interest and consideration, as well as safety for the automobile passenger.

The tourist volume of business in the Mississippi River Valley amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars annually, is continually increasing and can be expanded by an attractive parkway. North and South travel is equally vital to the future welfare of the cities along the Mississippi River as the East and West travel now is to the nation at large.

SCENERY, HISTORICAL POINTS

The changes in scenery from the precipitous cliffs and rolling timber country of the North, through the agricultural and industrial areas of the middle section of the South, will prove a great attraction to people with increasing leisure.

Improvement of the river with 26 locks and dams and the recreational and transportation lakes created thereby, provide new recreational facilities. People travel thousands of miles to see the Panama Canal Locks, and yet there are more locks in the Mississippi River and much more acreage.

Washington Comment

When the French, with the aid of the President, made an investigation of American planes, and later placed an order, there arose a tumult the echo of which has not yet died away. From one view point, the affair was merely a business transaction, and a good one at that. From another, Europe has been permitted to get inside our guard, and we are guilty of peddling munitions to an area in which war should be discouraged by every possible means. The debate, in heated form, has been transferred to the floor of Congress, where a bill has been introduced to limit the power of the President in the matter of the sale of aircraft aboard, the authority being transferred to the Army. Whether or not the passage of the measure is necessary or desirable, is something that will bear investigation and merit thought, but it is certain that if the Army has the say, the doubts will be resolved in favor of the U. S. A., and Europe will not get by with much. In a poll of newspaper editors, made by a Washington daily, the opinion was, in the ratio of seven to four, that we are being eased into war, a nine to two vote being registered in favor of the thesis that Congress and the Army should be the judges regarding the sale of military airships.

The Department of Justice has started suit against eighteen tire companies who offered identical bids for supplies to be furnished to the Government. It is entirely possible that trade conditions were so well known, and that each bidder was so thoroughly informed about the business of each of his fellows, that what appears on the surface to be collusion may have been genuine competition. Upon the other hand, the Government spares no pains to give to all an equal opportunity to bid, even in the case of small transactions, as is evidenced by the publication of a notice that three coffee and meat grinders will be bought for use in Virginia, New York and Massachusetts. The fact that eighteen like bids for auto supplies were tendered, does not prove anything in itself, but it does give rise to inquiry as to whether or not the bidders were quite so open as Uncle Sam.

An old time, strong arm hold-up, netting twenty-five thousand dollars, is reported from Phoenix, Ariz. Along with indignation over the outrage, and sympathy for the loser, there goes a secret and shameless satisfaction. It makes no difference that one is safer in Deadwood or Tombstone than in Chicago. The head will deny, but the heart likes to retain, the notion that there still exists a romantic, hard riding, sure shooting West; and so it comes about that peaceable and law abiding Phoenix is given credit for making in behalf of sentiment, a contribution that it would gladly disavow.

Cold-Wall Frigidaires
New Development

One of the most important scientific and engineering developments made in recent years in the electrical refrigeration industry has been announced by officials of Frigidaire division of General Motors Sales Corporation, with the introduction of the new 1939 Cold-Wall models, now on display in the showroom of The Lair Co., local Frigidaire dealer.

This new model, representing a most unique application of a scientific principle, provides uniform low temperatures, very high humidity and eliminates moisture-robbing air circulation. These three important factors have been added without adding a single moving part to the mechanism. Foods are kept naturally moist and vitally fresh longer than ever before because these three factors are utilized in combination.

Equally interesting to the public, even if not so startling in character as the new type food preserver, is the announcement of a new supervalue six cubic foot Frigidaire of conventional design to retail at a price under $150. A new all-time low for a Frigidaire of this size. Although representing a major cut in retail price in comparison to previously available models, the new six will retain the meter-miser type of compressor and freezing unit to be found in all models of the line.

The complete 1939 line of Frigidaire household refrigerators incorporated three basic series, known as the Special, the Master and the Cold Wall series, all being exclusive of the new super value six, which has been produced as a single model of outstanding value in the six foot classification.

It is no longer necessary always to cover cooked foods placed in the new Cold-Wall Frigidaire," according to Mr. Lair, local Frigidaire dealer. "Extensive research has proved that many of them will retain their desirable qualities up to seven times longer than when stored in the ordinary type of cabinet. The fresh appearance of meats and vegetables is maintained and foods in general have no tendency to dry out.

Fundamentally, this new Cold-Wall principle incorporates two basic methods of applying the results of mechanically produced low temperatures. The cabinet is divided into two completely separated sections by means of a solid glass shelf or divider, placed in the center and called the 'dew-fresh seal. Between the upper and lower sections, there is no connection and there is no circulation of air from one to the other, the glass shelf providing a tight seal on all four sides.

"Concealed coils have been placed in the walls of the lower section, which accomplish the cooling function largely by means of the radiant principle of heat transfer. Because of this principle, the resulting tendency to practical equalization of temperatures in the entire section, and the impossibility of additional heat reaching the food compartment by reason of the concealed refrigerant coils, air circulation is reduced to an almost unmeasurable degree".

The top section utilizes a standard freezing unit, providing plenty of ice cubes, dessert freezing and extra cold storage compartments. The conventional air circulation prevailing in the top section is utilized for refrigerating all foods in containers, bottles or cans, and those not affected adversely by circulation.

"An outstanding feature of this new model is the Meat-Tender which is a scientifically designed compartment providing the best known method for the preservation of meats in the home. It is located under the super-freezing unit, where the low temperatures that meats require are provided, although without any alternate freezing and thawing, due to the design and construction of the container itself. The correct combination of 'directed' air circulation and humidity permits meats to retain their natural juices without drying or sliming".

The complete new 1939 line of Frigidaire refrigerators may be seen at 115 West Center street.

THE BEACHCOMBER*

A Story in Pictures of Charles Laughton's Great New Picture, "The Beachcomber". Based on a Novel by W. Somerset Maugham

(CHAPTER FIVE: To Another Island.) During the three days they spend together in the native settlement, Ginger and Miss Jones relax their former hostility to each other for the first time. In spite of herself, Miss Jones admires his calm in the face of the greatest danger, while Ginger admits, to himself, that Miss Jones has her good points.

A strange noise outside their hut brings Ginger out into the jungle to investigate. The natives are on the verge of violence! As he feared, Miss Jones' courageous act of taking the chief's sick baby under her care has brought the natives to the point of revolt. Gun in hand, Ginger searches the vicinity. The hut is surrounded by armed natives, watching, waiting! Their signals in the stillness; the tense atmosphere, tell him that there'll be trouble if the child dies.

All through a nightmarish vigil, Ginger and Miss Jones sit huddled together in the hut, waiting for the ailing child to take a turn for the better—or worse! Outside, the natives pace restlessly. Loneliness and fear make the two confide in each other. With death hanging over them, their friendship grows. They hold hands. They talk of their early lives in England. Then, with the dawn, comes a smile from the child! It—and they—will live!

The scene switches to the "Fox and Rabbit Inn" back in England, where the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, formerly known as Ginger Ted and Miss Jones, go over their accounts. A frown appears on Ted's face. He asks his wife if her new gown isn't cut rather daringly low about the neck. Mrs. Wilson changes the subject. (THE END)

Central College

Central College, located at Fayette, Missouri, is the product of a program of education which has been carried on for more than a century by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Missouri. The college, incorporated by the Missouri General Assembly on March 1, 1855, eighty-four years ago this week, had its origin in Howard High School. Founded at Fayette in 1844, the high school was for a number of years one of the leading educational institutions in central Missouri.

In 1853 the St. Louis and Missouri Annual conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, united upon a policy of building only one central college in the State, planning to concentrate "the whole energies of the denomination" for its endowment and support. In a spirited contest, Fayette, which had been a close contender with Columbia for the location of the State University, was selected as the home of the new college.

On February 4, 1854, one week after the Howard High School building burned, the trustees transferred the site to the college board of curators. Work was started at once on a new building, estimated at costing $30,000 to $33,000. It was completed in 1857. Howard High School was reorganized and continued as an institution for the education of women. In 1859 it was incorporated as Howard Female College, later becoming Howard-Payne College, which in 1922 was absorbed by Central College.

Possibly there was not a single early college in Missouri that opened under more favorable circumstances than did Central. For the first term, beginning on September 21, 1857, the enrollment was 124. This was six more than were enrolled in the State University for the same year, counting irregular students and freshmen. The Reverend Nathan Scarritt, the Reverend C. W. Pritchett and Eli Offutt were the only faculty members. In 1858 the board of curators ordered the publication of an annual catalog and the following year the first baccalaureate degree issued by the college was conferred upon S. C. Majofs, Jr.

With the exception of a short recess during the Civil war the story of the college is one of continuous advancement. Situated on a beautiful campus in Fayette is a plant of fifteen buildings valued at almost $2,000,000, with an endowment of practically a million and a half more to add to the financial security of the institution. Many friends have helped to build the endowment through gifts, large and small, life annuities and testamentary bequests. Among the latest donors are Paul Brown, J. T. Cross, G. A. Radford, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Friston, and Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Cresap. Through the building and support of Central College the Methodist church in Missouri has exemplified in a most concrete manner the spirit of the great Wesley, who was led to build a school before he built a chapel.

Fletcher McMurry and Eugene Russell Hendrix, two of three Missourians to hold the highest episcopal office in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, received a part of their education at Central College. For the year 1937-1938 the college had a faculty of forty-five persons and an enrollment, including summer students, of 790. The alumni of this college have held positions as educators and teachers in the country's leading educational institutions. Others have served in positions of trust in the State and national governments, and as diplomats, scientists, educators, authors, and ministers, others have exerted a profound influence on national and international affairs. The idealism and wide influence of the group of Central College graduates once prompted the late Walter Williams of characterize the world as the parish of Central College.

The Yankee Cavalry is in full retreat today. North of Pontotoc, Miss., they seem to be checking their movement. But General Gholson's Confederate command is following close behind them. Gen. N. B. Forrest yesterday had two horses shot from under him and he killed two Yankee officers with his saber. General Sherman's Federals have advanced to Pearl River. Near Okolona, Miss., General Forrest charged the Federals with sabers, slashing the Yankees right and left, driving them from their chosen battle front like cattle. Many of their wounded men were left on the field.—70 years ago in Memphis Commercial Appeal.

PHEASANTS FLOCK TO FARM OFFERING FEED AND COVER

The farm of Louis Spatz in Elsah Township, Jersey County, Illinois, provides one of the best examples of what game management will do, according to Thomas Cummings, game warden of Jersey County. Cummings estimates that Spatz has fully 300 pheasants on his farm. The birds find excellent winter covering in a 60-acre tract of sweet clover which grows to considerable height last season.

Spatz maintains a continuous soil-building program through the use of this legume, and permits it to continue for several years before plowing it under.

Pheasants prefer the sweet clover cover to any other in the locality. Another factor as important as the cover is the corn that Spatz refuses to husk each winter. This season he has permitted a 15-acre tract in close proximity to the sweet clover to remain unhusked, and it is in this field that the birds find plenty of food.

It has recently been demonstrated that cock pheasants may become too numerous. They engage in fighting that sometimes lasts over long periods and ends in many instances in the death of one of the combatants.

During wheat-sowing season last October, Spatz says, a pair of the cock pheasants started fighting just as Spatz started the afternoon work. The birds fought all afternoon, and when Spatz drove his drill to its parking place for the night, the two were still battling.

Cummings reports that many cock pheasants have been found dead in fields of the county. The dead birds have in each case shown the effects of fighting.—Post-Dispatch.

If a candle had three ends...

Those who burn the candle at both ends are borrowing tomorrow's pleasures for today. If a candle had three ends they'd burn them all. Then, there's the fellow who never lights his candle at all. He's blinded by his fears of tomorrow.

The destiny of our America depends upon those who can see today's needs clearly... who can await tomorrow with confidence. Such was the spirit of our gallant forefathers. Had they burned the candle at both ends, or, had they failed to burn it at all... they would have accomplished nothing. Instead, they left us a priceless heritage... a land and opportunities that other nations envy.

"It's too bad that most Americans think that the only way to get good Italian cooking in this country is to go to the little Italian restaurant around the corner," says Agata Borzi, young Italian-American coloratura soprano who is making her debut this season. "As a matter of fact, there are all sorts of excellent and simple dishes which can be prepared at home and it's always fun to surprise your guests with a complete Italian meal."

MACARONI MEAL-IN-ONE

When you get acquainted with a food as downright good and tasty and at the same time as quick and convenient as ready-to-serve macaroni and cheese—believe me, you'll think of a dozen ways to fit it into your menus. Specially if you want quick and easy meals. Why, you don't have to do a thing to it. It's seasoned to a "T". Just as luscious and rich and creamy as any good cook's macaroni ought to be. There's nothing to do but open the tin, spoon the contents into a buttered casserole, cap with a few bread crumbs and pop in the oven 'till the top is beautifully brown, and it's hot and bubbly all the way through. Makes mighty fine eating done that way, I can tell you. Or, if you'd like to trim it up a bit with a few frills of your own fixing, how about making Beefsteak Macaroni Pies? Makes a lusty main-course-in-one dish done this way:

BEEFSTEAK MACARONI PIES

Combine, mixing well—
2 lbs. round steak, ground
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper.
Line 8 individual pie pans with the meat mixture, forming a meat crust. Fill centers with—
2 medium (17 oz.) cans cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese using about a fourth of a can for each pie.

Sprinkle with a combination of—
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter, melted.
Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. (Serves 8.)

GOOD MIXER

For a good all around mixer in any pantry party you can't beat spaghetti—those long tender strands made of top-grade Durum wheat masked in a nippy tomato and cheese sauce. The racy flavor makes it a sure-fire favorite with any crowd. And the ease of preparing any restaurant bill of fare, and Serve minestrone, spaghetti with what's more, it's easy to prepare. a white sauce, a good green salad, stration is sure to win the cook's approval. Specially when you use the ready-to-serve kind that comes done up in tins. Here now is just the dish to try out next time you need a quick trick from the kitchen—Individual Spaghetti Casseroles. You can turn them out in a trice this way:

INDIVIDUAL SPAGHETTI CASSEROLES

Combine—
1 cup diced cooked turkey or chicken
1 cup cooked peas.

Place—
1 large (24 oz.) can cooked spaghetti in tomato sauce in two layers in individual casseroles, placing the meat mixture between the two layers of spaghetti.

Top with—
Buttered rice flakes.
Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 20 minutes.

Note: Canned cooked macaroni may be substituted for spaghetti.

NEW RAREBIT NOTE

Next time you'd like to turn out a novel rarebit for a simple supper, why don't you try a Macaroni Rarebit made of crisp onion, celery, and green pepper merged with chili sauce and then blended with tender, tasty strands of macaroni. It's a guaranteed favorite with folks who like fine flavored food. Here's how it's done:

MACARONI RAREBIT

Melt in skillet—
2 tablespoons butter
then add, cooking until tender, but retaining their crispiness—

1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper.

Add—
2 tablespoons chili sauce and simmer 1 minute.

Remove from fire, then add, mixing well—
1 medium (17 oz.) can cooked macaroni in cream sauce with cheese.

Pour into a shallow casserole and sprinkle with—1/4 cup fresh bread crumbs.

Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Yolks of three large eggs, three tablespoons of sugar, just a little more than half cup of either Marsala wine or Madeira.

Put the yolks of eggs and sugar in a bowl and beat until the mixture is almost white and very light. Then add the wine and mix thoroughly. Pour into a saucepan and put on a quick fire, beating incessantly without allowing the mixture to boil or thicken. As soon as it begins to raise, remove from the fire, and pour into glasses. When served cold, keep in a cool place till required.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES IN POSTER CONTEST

weighs 1500 pounds. The public is invited.

BAILEY NEWS

The perfect spellers for the month of February is Miss Howard's room were: John Kendig, Shirley Reed, Lenora Brown, and Donald Duncan. The next best spellers that just missed one word were: Jimmy Mahew, Jack Bowman, Harold Portlock, Graham Sadler, Laurene Fowler, Forrest File, Elizabeth Price, Thelma Williams, and Fretta Campbell.

The sixth grade pupils wrote short stories. They were given the introduction, and then they completed the story. Those judged best by the room were: "Helping the Police" by Jane Wilkerson; "Little Mischief" by Pat Elise; "The Runaway" by Betty Hirschberg; and "The Mud Bath" by Martha Stevens.

The Book-Club leader elected for the month of March is Ann Warren of Miss Stubblefield's room.

Much interest is being shown in the book, "Pee-Gloo", P. T. A. book prize for having the most mothers present at the meeting in December.

"Pee-Gloo" is a story of a penguin whose adventure began at the South Pole and ended, for the time being, in America. The story is beautifully illustrated with pictures.

HEALTH NOTES

The Dexter home economics classes visited the Sikeston cottage Thursday. The girls arrived late Thursday morning and the freshman girls took their guests on a tour of inspection. Here, at noon, the Sikeston girls served luncheon to the Dexter girls. Mrs. Elliot's class brought their sewing projects, and regular classes were held in the cottage Thursday afternoon.

ATTENTION: 9-POINT PUPILS

A reunion of the alumnae of '37 and '38 who took home economics in '34 and '34 will be held in the home economics cottage at 8 o'clock Friday evening. The girls are meeting to see the cottage and to talk over old times.

TELEVISION WILL BE DEMONSTRATED

Television will be demonstrated at an assembly program on Monday, March 6, at 2:30 p.m. This modern world wonder will be previewed when both receiving and transmitting sets will be demonstrated. With the transmitting set on the side of the stage and the receiving set on the other, scenes of individuals in action will be picked up by the receiving set, sent across the stage, and shown on a screen almost three feet square, a full television operation. This will be done with both the disc and cathode ray types of equipment.

The demonstration will be preceded by a simple, yet interesting explanation of the principles involved in television, all given in such simple language that even the youngest may readily understand.

The latest and most modern developments in the field of television will be displayed. In fact, a large part of this apparatus has been specially designed and constructed for this particular demonstration. It is not duplicated anywhere in the world. More than $12,000 was spent in the construction of the equipment, which

WPA Furnishes Kitchen Employees, Part of Food for School Lunches

The government through the kitchen at the South Grade School provides six employees in the kitchen and approximately one-third of the food that is issued to undernourished children each school day at noon on the lunch project sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, according to Pearl Finney of Chaffee, county kitchen supervisor.

Each day around 260 children sit at tables at the South Grade School, High School and colored school, eating a well-rounded menu designed to build up their bodies and make them more fit for school work and play.

The bill of fare for Thursday, for instance, was green beans, Irish potatoes, grapefruit and bread.

All the food is cooked in a

PERSONALS

A son, weighing 7 pounds, 8 1/2 ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner Saturday afternoon, at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Kitchen employees are Mrs. Campbell, timekeeper; Mrs. Martha Crutchfield, Mrs. Pearl Shanks, Mrs. Inez Midget, Mrs. Emma Carroll and Mrs. Guy Browning. Two go to the High School eating room and one to the colored school.

By schools, children are served as follows: South Grade, 135; High School, 85; colored school, 40.

Government supplies come from the surplus commodity warehouse at Benton of the Social Security Commission. The kitchen has just received from the government 400 pounds of grapefruit and 85 pounds of butter.

The WPA also has supplied 18 uniforms and caps for the kitchen employees, and 30 aprons.

Reports from the school declare that children who otherwise would be dull and listless, incapacitated by lack of proper nourishment, have showed remarkable progress in their work since they have been eating at the lunch room.

The cost per pupil per meal runs well under 5 cents.

Suspected Of Burglary

Crippled Negro Taken By Police After Cane Prints Show at Scene

A broom-stick padded at one end and used as a cane is the clue which officers seek to connect Sylvester Lewis, middle-aged, crippled negro from Caruthersville, with a burglary at 218 Daniel street Wednesday night and possibly more of the house raids that have taken place in Sikeston during the last year and a half.

When J. W. Jordan at the Daniel Street address reported to police that his home had been entered and 80 cents taken from his trousers, Assistant Chief Claude McManus and State Trooper V. P. Boisbabin inspected around a living room window and found, besides footprints, the marks of a cane.

Later, around 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Officer McManus at the bus depot arrested Lewis, who carried the broom-stick cane.

He said he lived in Caruthersville, and had boarded a freight train at Hayti and had ridden as far as Sikeston. He told police he intended to take a bus for Cape Girardeau. On him was found 85 cents, an empty bill fold and a flashlight.

The Jordan home was entered by punching the screen to a living room window and loosening the hook. The burglar was compelled to go through the dining room, cross a hall and enter the bedroom where Mr. Jordan was sleeping. His trousers were dropped on the pocket change, a set of keys and a round souvenir bearing his name, received from the Illinois Central railroad, was also taken.

Lewis was fingerprinted at the City Hall. Some scattered prints have been taken at various times during the burglary epidemic and police intend to make comparisons.

Elli Williams, who glimpsed a negro burglar last fall when he frightened him away from his home at 314 Ruth, failed to identify Lewis, saying there was a difference of face outlines.

Cane prints were found around the Williams home, but the man who made them, along with footprints, was not crippled, he declared.

Don't Serve The Same Dishes Too Often During Observance of Lent, Famous Chef Advisers

(By Joseph Boggia)

To those who are observing Lent I may give one bit of advice which it will be well to follow. Do not fall into the habit of serving the same dishes too frequently during this period when you are eliminating a number of foods which seem important at other seasons.

Variety will help so much to make you forget that something is lacking in Lenten menus. It will make new food friends for you among those fruits, fish, vegetables and dairy products which you are inclined to slight somewhat when serving your favorite meats and pastries.

Particularly I wish to suggest that you learn new ways in which to cook fish; and that you make the acquaintance of new kinds of fish. Keep a card index or scrap book of the interesting recipes you find from day to day and try them. Fish becomes very tiresome when served too often in the plainer ways. Try these few recipes I shall give today—and later more shall follow.

Shad will soon be in season, in the early Spring, and no fish is more delicate than boiled shad Hollandaise. Cook the fish in salted water to which you have added sufficient vinegar to make it mildly tart. Add also seasonings of pepper and parsley while the fish is cooking. Remove carefully to serviette, garnish with plain boiled potatoes and garnish with Hollandaise sauce.

Cherry Surprise Cakes

By Marian Van

ALMOST everyone likes surprises for they bring new joy to living. Here is a dessert which not only has a surprise element but a wonderful new flavor combination. It is called Cherry Surprise Cake and is a most ingenious arrangement. Small cups of feather lightness are used as a base.

SURPRISE CUP CAKES

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 eggs
2 cups flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add flavoring and eggs. Beat until fluffy. Sift flour, measure and resift with the other dry ingredients. Add flour alternately with milk, mixing thoroughly after each addition. Bake in well greased muffin pans or in paper baking cups set in muffin pans in moderate oven (350°F.) 25-30 minutes. Yield: 15 cup cakes.

To decorate cut a cone shaped piece out of the top of each cup cake with a sharp knife. In this cavity place a spoonful of sweet canned pitted red cherries and cover with a large spoonful of whipped cream. Then replace the piece of cake which had been removed, pressing down very gently. This makes a nice party dessert.

NATIONAL CONTEST PRIZE WINNER TELLS WHY WOMEN WANT MODERN KITCHENS

Why women everywhere today want modern electric kitchens is no secret. Almost everyone knows of their efficiency and convenience. But Mrs. C. J. Sennitt, of Spokane, Washington, one of the prize winners in a national kitchen planning contest conducted by The Modern Kitchen Bureau, believes several other reasons important.

"I am tired of 'horse and buggy' housekeeping," Mrs. Sennitt says. "Tired of the eternal food struggle!

"I want the emancipation that a new, modern, electric kitchen affords!

"The beauty of streamlined equipment, with the thrill of color and contrast, the charm of gleaming cleanliness.

"The economy of time, work and money, with step-saving arrangement and modern methods; the effort-saving the ample storage capacity for quantity-bought foods, more appetizing thrift meals, proper refrigeration and perfect cooking at minimized cost.

"The convenience of automatic control, faultless lighting, abundant hot water, good ventilation, electric-clock time, generous cabinet space, dish-washer sink, and the use of various 'mobile' electrical appliances.

"The efficiency of scientifically-precisioned performance, promotion safety of operation and dependability of results.

"The durability which makes an electric kitchen a permanent investment, that staunch durability which makes the 'purchase by savings' plan a workable, profitable plan.

"Yes, I want the joy of a well-ordered, modernized, electric kitchen regime, which means a healthy family and a happy home."

Cold-Wall Frigidaires
New Development

One of the most important scientific and engineering developments made in recent years in the electrical refrigeration industry has been announced by officials of the Frigidaire division of General Motors Sales Corporation, with the introduction of the new 1939 Cold-Wall models, now on display in the showroom of The Lair Co., local Frigidaire dealer.

This new model, representing a most unique application of a scientific principle, provides uniform low temperatures, very high humidity and eliminates moisture-robbing air circulation. These three important factors have been added without adding a single moving part to the mechanism. Foods are kept naturally moist and vitally fresh longer than ever before because these three factors are utilized in combination.

Equally interesting to the public, even if not so startling in character as the new type food preserver, is the announcement of a new supervalue six cubic foot Frigidaire of conventional design to retail at a price under $150. A new all-time low for a Frigidaire of this size. Although representing a major cut in retail price in comparison to previously available models, the new six will retain the meter-miser type of compressor and freezing unit to be found in all models of the line.

The complete 1939 line of Frigidaire household refrigerators incorporated three basic series, known as the Special, the Master and the Cold Wall series, all being exclusive of the new super value six, which has been produced as a single model of outstanding value in the six foot classification.

"It is no longer necessary always to cover cooked foods placed in the new Cold Wall Frigidaire," according to Mr. Lair, local Frigidaire dealer. "Extensive research has proved that many of them will retain their desirable qualities up to seven times longer than

Since the days of the Roman Appian Way (which in its time cost much more per mile than the modern parkway) highways have been changed to meet current needs. The enclosed automobile today comfortably carries a family anywhere, any time and at reasonable cost. The parkway provides a pleasant and recreational travelway. It is a logical adjunct to the commercial routes for commercial vehicles between commercial centers.

PROMPT ACTION NECESSARY

The launching of this project at this time will permit the affected states to release their correlated developments and to arrange their programs of land acquisition while historic and suitable sites are yet available. The approval of the parkway plan by the federal government will greatly encourage the affected states to immediately enter upon an intelligent plan for the development of parks and recreational facilities and stimulate interest which will result in early construction.

It will take time to survey, obtain rights-of-way, construct the roadway and landscape the parkway areas. Therefore, the sooner the Congressional Act for this parkway can be enacted, the sooner public agencies can arrange their development programs to fit its ultimate plan and save duplication of effort and expenditures.

No estimate of cost has been made by anyone. No estimate of any kind can be prepared until field surveys are completed, a route finally selected by the National Park Service and plans approved. Therefore, it is hoped that Congress will speedily authorize the necessary surveys.

It is hoped as a result of the Federal surveys, that sections of the Mississippi River Parkway will be under development in 1941 as an appropriate permanent part of the Quadricentennial celebration of the discovery of the Mississippi River by Hernando De Soto.

POPULATION, TRAVEL
AMPLY JUSTIFY PROJECT

One-fourth the population of the nation resides in the mid-continent 10 states bordering the Mississippi River.

There are approximately six million passenger automobiles registered in these 10 states, and over 10 million automobiles within one day's drive to the proposed parkway.

Hazards of mixed traffic and the continuing increase in the number of trucks demand the separation of passenger from commercial vehicles for tourists and "travel trade" as a matter of public interest and consideration, as well as safety for the automobile passenger.

The tourist volume of business in the Mississippi River Valley amounts to hundreds of millions of dollars annually, is continually increasing and can be expanded by an attractive parkway. North and South travel is equally vital to the future welfare of the cities along the Mississippi River as the East and West travel now is to the nation at large.

SCENERY, HISTORICAL POINTS

The changes in scenery from the precipitous cliffs and rolling timber country of the North, through the agricultural and industrial areas of the middle section and through the cotton lands of the South, will prove a great attraction to people with increasing leisure.

Improvement of the river with its 26 locks and dams and the recreational and transportation lakes created thereby, provide new recreational facilities. People travel thousands of miles to see the Panama Canal Locks, and yet there are more locks in the Mississippi River and much more accessible.

The Mississippi River touches many of the most historical points in the national and the parkway will provide the necessary travelway between these interesting places.

It will revive and stimulate interest in the Mississippi River and its history. It will serve as a rural trunk "market-to-market" thoroughfare for tourists. It must not be confused, however, with an urban boulevard. It is to be a tourway through natural landscapes and it will supplement Federal-aid, State and County trunk and farm-to-market highways.

"An outstanding feature of this new model is the Meat-Tender which is a scientifically designed compartment providing the best known method for the preservation of meats in the home. It is located under the super-freezing unit, where the low temperatures that meats require are provided, although without any alternate freezing and thawing, due to the design and construction of the container itself. The correct combination of 'directed' air circulation and humidity permits meats to retain their natural juices without drying or sliming".

ability of additional heat reaching the food compartment by reason of the concealed refrigerant coils, air circulation is reduced to an almost unmeasurable degree".

"The top section utilizes a standard freezing unit, providing plenty of ice cubes, dessert freezing and extra cold storage compartments. The conventional air circulation prevailing in the top section is utilized for refrigerating all foods in containers, bottles or cans, and those not affected adversely by circulation.

"Concealed coils have been placed in the walls of the lower section, which accomplish the cooling function largely by means of the radiant principle of heat transfer. Because of this principle, the resulting tendency to practical equalization of temperatures in the entire section, and the impossibility of additional heat reaching the food compartment by reason of the concealed refrigerant coils, air circulation is reduced to an almost unmeasurable degree".

Washington Comment

When the French, with the aid of the President, made an investigation of American planes, and later placed an order, there arose a tumult the echo of which has not yet died away. From one view point, the affair was merely a business transaction, and a good one at that. From another, Europe produced a near-riot, held in check by the largest corps of policemen that could be spared for such service. The doctrine of free speech is put uncomfortably on the spot by Nazi, Facist and Communist orators, preaching doctrines which, to say the least, are regarded generally as having no place in the affairs of the United States. References to "Storm Troopers" doing this and that on American soil, somehow creates a feeling that there are goings-on which should be subjected to the soft pedal, yet it is no very sound argument to state that in a Nazi dominion, anti-Nazis would land in jail, rather than in a convention hall. Perhaps the best way to handle strange and unwelcome theories of government is to let them boil up, run over and extinguish the fire that heats them; yet, having thus gone on record in favor of freedom of speech, the average mind still retains, in the shadow, the opinion that "There ought to be a law".

The Department of Justice has started suit against eighteen tire companies who offered identical bids for supplies to be furnished to the Government. It is entirely possible that trade conditions were so well known, and that each bidder was so thoroughly informed about the business of each of his fellows, that what appears on the surface to be collusion may have been genuine competition. Upon the other hand, the Government spares no pains to give to all an equal opportunity to bid, even in the case of small transactions, as is evidenced by the publication of a notice that three coffee and meat grinders will be bought for use in Virginia, New York and Massachusetts. The fact that eighteen like bids for auto supplies were tendered, does not prove anything in itself, but it does give rise to inquiry as to whether or not the bidders were quite so open as Uncle Sam.

An old time, strong arm hold-up, netting twenty-five thousand dollars, is reported from Phoenix, Ariz. Along with indignation over the outrage, and sympathy for the loser, there goes a secret and shameless satisfaction. It makes no difference that one is safer in Deadwood or Tombstone than in Chicago. The head will deny, but the heart likes to retain, the notion that there still exists a romantic, hard riding, sure shooting West; and so it comes about that peaceful and law abiding Phoenix is given credit for making in behalf of sentiment, a contribution that it would gladly disavow.
